HIGH WIND SWEEPS CENTRAL DISTRICT

UTILITY WIRES TORN DOWN IN SOUTHERN OHIO

No Serious Property Loss Noted In Circleville District

Velocity Of As High As 60 Miles Reached At Columbus Port

Winds that ranged in velocity from 30 to 60 miles an hour hit Circleville and Pickaway County early Thursday and continued through most of the day. Despite the strength of the gale, believed to have been the end of a tropical hurricane that struck the gulf states earlier in the week, no serious damage was reported.

Some trees were uprooted and in some parts of Central Ohio minor interruptions were noted in communications systems.

Columbus airport weather bureau officials said that at one time a 60-mile-an-hour wind was recorded in the airport tower. At ground level, however, the highest rate was at 50 miles an hour. No airplanes were reported grounded.

Cincinnati Hit

At Cincinnati a 40-mile-an-hour wind struck the city at 6:30 a. m., interrupting telegraph and telephone service as tumbling trees tore down lines. Postal Telegraph lines were down between Cincinnati and Columbus.

Western Union reported a line out between Columbus and Louisville. Officials of the Ohio Bell Telephone company said that communications west of Columbus were disrupted at several points. In addition to its Columbus-Cincinnati line, Postal Telegraph also reported wires down east of Dayton.

The high wind blew thick clouds of dust before it, sweeping through windows into buildings.

The official U. S. weather bureau in downtown Columbus reported the high winds were general throughout the state. Center of the disturbance, which moved across the plains states yesterday, was understood to be over Lake Michigan.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 — Hundreds of German troops are reported to have been rushed to the great Skoda arms works in Czechoslovakia following an explosion which killed and wounded many Nazi workers, according to a British broadcast picked up today by CBS.

The same broadcast asserted that despite the presence of German troops, another explosion occurred which destroyed the power station.

'Tough Guy' Tried in Cop Killing

"LET'S get it over with," snarled Bernard (Knifey) Sawicki, 19, as his trial in Judge John Sbarbaro's court in Chicago for the murder of Police Officer Charles J. Speaker, 58, last June gets under way. Alternating grinning and scowling, Sawicki continues to maintain his role of "tough guy." Sawicki, a reform school parolee, has already confessed to three other murders during the fantastic week end in which Officer Speaker was slain when he attempted to prevent Sawicki robbing a couple in a car. His other victims, he confessed, were John Miller, 19, who resisted robbery; Charles Kwinski, 17, who refused to participate in robbery, and Henry Allain, 72, a farmer, whom Sawicki had long hated.

Librarian For County's Bookmobile Is Employed

Miss Beverly E. Saunders, Minneapolis, Minn., was employed as County Extension Librarian Wednesday night by the library board. She will begin work October 1.

Miss Saunders, who takes the place of Miss Frances Alderson who has been employed as county librarian at Charleston, W. Va., received her training at Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, and at the School of Library Science, Minneapolis. She has special training in cataloging, classification, reference, adult book selection, library work for children and current library problems.

NEUTRALITY ACT REPEAL ASKED

McKellar Of Tennessee Puts Measure On Senate Floor

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—Rising in the Senate today, Sen. McKellar (D) Tenn., introduced a bill for repeal of the Neutrality Act, under which American merchant ships are forbidden to enter the combat zone around the British Isles.

"The law is in direct conflict with our freedom of the seas policy which has endured for over 100 years," McKellar declared.

So long as it remains on the books, McKellar said, Germany will regard herself master of the Atlantic and assume that the United States is afraid of her military might.

Since the American government now is virtually committed to bring about the defeat of Nazism, high administration officials feel that President Roosevelt's hands should not be tied in respect to the sending of American merchant ships anywhere that their cargoes may do the most good.

These administration officials, who include Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Secretary of War Stimson, feel that it should be left entirely to the President's discretion as to where American merchant ships may be sent.

Hull, Knox and Stimson personally favor outright repeal of the Neutrality Act, but the secretary of state is understood to be somewhat doubtful at the moment concerning the advisability of going so far as to seek congressional approval for complete scrapping of the measure at this time.

ENOUGH SPACE FOR JUNIOR FAIR GRAVE PROBLEM

Board Members Demand More Room Or Threaten To Abandon Exhibits

MEMORIAL HALL USED

Saturday Fixed As Deadline For Pumpkin Show Society To Take Action

Problem of finding adequate space to house Junior Fair exhibits for the Pumpkin Show became critical Wednesday night when Junior Fair members learned that the room provided for them in Memorial Hall was insufficient. The board voted to discontinue the Junior Fair unless a suitable building could be found by Saturday.

Show Treasurer Robert Colville said Thursday that he felt certain some provision could be made to house the Junior Fair exhibits without materially cutting their size, but Junior Fair members remained firm on their conviction that although all divisions of their show were set up they could not exhibit their displays unless space is found within the next two days. If space is not provided, only the livestock show and sale will be held, the school exhibits, 4-H Club exhibits, vocational agriculture, home economics, Boy and Girl Scout, Juvenile Grange, and farm shop displays being dropped.

Annual "Headache"

Junior Fair officials made it plain that their move was by no means indicated that they wished to discontinue their part in the Pumpkin Show, but the problem of finding space to house their exhibits has been an annual "headache" and, with the expanded size of the exhibits this year, is worse than ever before.

The fancy work, fine arts, junior art department and the amateur photography displays already are scheduled to be set up in Memorial Hall, and the remaining space will fall far short of housing the Junior Fair displays, members feel.

In years past the Junior Fair has been housed in the Armory building, but last year army restrictions prevented its use and the Junior Fair was held in the Elmer Wolf building on East Franklin Street. The building is being reconstructed and cannot be used this year.

The Junior Fair board meeting Wednesday night was held in the office of County School Superintendent George D. McDowell, who directs the Junior Fair.

Junior board members include Wenrich Stuckey and Wanda June Hudson, 4-H Club work; Donald Balthaser, vocational agriculture; Norma J. Brown, home economics; Mary Ellen Fissel, Girl Scouts; Gene Bradley, Juvenile Grange; Kenneth Timmons, Future Farmers of America; Harry Clifton, Boy Scouts; Paul Schein, school shop.

MISS CLARA PEDRICK, 83, DIES OF COMPLICATIONS

Miss Clara Belle Pedrick, 83, a lifelong resident of Circleville, died Thursday at 7:17 a. m. in Berger Hospital. She had been seriously ill of complications for the last week, and was removed Tuesday from her home, 314 East Mound Street, to the hospital.

She was born in Circleville May 4, 1858, a daughter of Alfred and Hannah Powell Pedrick.

Miss Pedrick is survived by two nieces, Miss Edith Pedrick of Columbus and Mrs. Mae Mackinson of Pittsburgh, Pa., and a nephew, Alfred Carl Pedrick of California. She was a member of the United Brethren Church.

The funeral will be Saturday at 3 p. m. in the Albaugh Co. Chapel, the Rev. A. N. Gruesser officiating, with burial in Forest Cemetery.

Friends may call after 7 p. m. Friday to view the body at the funeral chapel.

WINDSORS ARRIVE IN WASHINGTON ON CANADIAN JOURNEY

Three Thousand At Union Station To Cheer Duke And Wally; Death Alters Plans

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 — A crowd of more than 3,000 persons, mostly women, roared an ovation to the Duke of Windsor and his American-born duchess today as the royal couple alighted from their stream-lined train at Washington's Union station.

The duke, nattily attired in a light grey pencil striped suit and hatless, and the duchess in a black suit ensemble, arrived in the nation's capital just as hordes of government workers were enroute to their offices.

The duke and duchess came by train from Miami and will remain in Washington until tomorrow morning. They are en route to the duke's huge ranch in Alberta, Canada.

A few hours before their arrival, G. Hall Roosevelt, brother of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, died. The Windsors were to have been luncheon guests at the White House today, but Hall Roosevelt's illness and death caused the President to postpone the event. The chief executive, however, hoped to greet the couple during the day.

State Department officials, headed by George T. Summerlin, chief of protocol, who has greeted every royal and diplomatic visitor for the last quarter century, welcomed the Windsors at the station platform. He addressed the duke as "your royal highness" and the former Wallis Warfield as "duchess." On hand also were Sir Ronald Campbell, British minister who is acting-ambassador, and Elizabeth (Aunt Bessie) Merryman, of Baltimore, the duchess' aunt.

The duke wore no hat as the couple was escorted to the spacious plush-carpeted President's room of the Union station.

ONLY BROTHER OF FIRST LADY IS DEAD AT 51

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—With Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt at his bedside, G. Hall Roosevelt, only brother of the first lady, died early today at Walter Reed Hospital where he had been a patient since early September.

His death was the second to strike the noted family in a little more than two weeks. The President's mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, died at her Hyde Park, N. Y., home September 7.

Roosevelt was a son of Elliott Roosevelt who was a brother of Theodore Roosevelt. He was born at Passy, France, January 25, 1890, and was graduated from Harvard with high honors in 1914. During World War I he taught aviation and became associated with several aircraft firms. He later was employed by the General Electric Co. for 14 years. In 1928 he became vice-president of the Eastern Michigan Railway System with headquarters at Detroit. Roosevelt served as controller of Detroit from January, 1931 until December 1, 1932 when Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy was mayor of the motor city. He was also put in charge of unemployment and relief problems.

At one time Roosevelt lived for a week on $1.75 to prove that it (Continued on Page Ten)

TOMATOES ROT AS GROWERS AND U. S. MEN ARGUE

SIDNEY, Sept. 25—With further delay meaning the tomatoes will rot in the fields, government agents today attempted to arrange a third conference with 18 Shelby County growers who refused to pick their crop in protest over a 57 percent reduction in their gradings.

Two previous conferences have resulted fruitlessly. Last year government inspectors judged the crop 75 percent Grade A, but this year cut their gradings to 18 percent. The growers, who have about 50 acres in tomatoes, supply the Minster cannery with about half of the crop it consumes.

Following an unofficial notice, Selective Service officials Thursday received an official call from state headquarters for 47 men on Wednesday, October 22.

The call will take all class 1-A men to approximately Order Number 1600.

BLOC TO FIGHT AID FOR SOVIET

Illinois Republican Takes Lead To Prevent Lease, Lend Assistance

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—The House non-intervention bloc today agreed to launch a fight to bar Russia from receiving aid under President Roosevelt's new $5,985,000,000 lend-lease bill.

Rep. Day (R) Ill., said he will sponsor an amendment to the measure to prevent lend-lease aid from reaching the Soviet, and Rep. Fish (R) N. Y., House non-interventionist leader, said he will support it.

Leaders of the House Appropriations Subcommittees, which is handling the new request, have expected a fight, however, and claimed enough votes to defeat the proposed amendment.

Day also has a concurrent resolution pending before the House Foreign Affairs Committee barring lend-lease aid to Russia. Its defeat was predicted by Rep. Bloom (D) N. Y., committee chairman.

"I hold no brief for Communism and that issue isn't at stake here," Bloom said. "But if any nation has checked the axis, Russia has. Congress is committed to aid any nation whose defense is vital to the defense and security of the United States. That certainly means Russia as well as Britain."

Lend-lease Administrator Edward R. Stettinius Jr., advised the sub-committee Tuesday against any specific limitation.

Day said that he would ask acceptance of the amendment on the grounds that aid to Russia is not contemplated in the bill, but will be supplied from other sources.

SIX NAVY MEN CRASH VICTIMS IN DEEP SOUTH

PENSACOLA, Fla., Sept. 25—Navy authorities today investigated two plane crashes in which six flyers from the Pensacola Naval Air Base were killed.

Four men died when their plane fell during a storm near Bay Springs, Miss., yesterday and two others were killed when their ship went out of control and crashed on the Santa Rosa Peninsula.

Victims in the Bay Springs crash were identified as T. O. Carter, Pensacola; Jesse Wilcox, Warrington, Fla.; S. Oldaker and B. B. Barbour. In the Santa Rosa crash the victims were Naval Cadet Charles Pilinski, 24, of Green Bay, Wis., and Ensign Donald Utz, 27, of Port Washington, N. Y.

NAVAL BASE IMPORTANT

Leningrad's Outer Defenses Broken, According To Nazi Claim

LONDON, Sept. 25 — Apparently throwing four mechanized divisions into the fray, German forces today started their anticipated attack on Russia's Crimean peninsula, according to British military authorities in London.

These quarters said they did not believe the Germans were using a force of more than four divisions for this particular assault, adding they probably all were crack mechanized troops.

They said the Germans were reported trying to force their way through the "bottleneck" Perekop Isthmus which joins the Crimea with the Russian mainland.

At the same time, authorities said, the German drives along the sea of Azov towards Stalin and Rostov-On Don are believed to be well enough consolidated to prevent Russian flanking attacks.

Although there was no information in London to confirm the use of German airborne or parachute troops in the offensive against the Crimea, it was believed likely the assault is heavily supported by the Luftwaffe, since Russia dominates the sea routes.

War Of Attrition

The Crimean attack indicated the Germans have consolidated their entire southern line east of the Dnieper River. They may intend only a war of attrition against the Crimea to protect the Nazi flank moving eastward.

There is a possibility, however, that the Germans may be able to break through the Crimea with only four divisions—approximately 70,000 men—but if so they probably would follow up with a drive (Continued on Page Ten)

ITALIANS ADMIT HEAVY ATTACKS BY R. A. F. FORCE

A. F. machines also raided Tripoli, Benghazi and Bardia.

Ground defenses shot down one attacking plane over Palermo while the German air force accounted for eight more R. A. F. craft in air duels over the Egyptian-Libyan frontier, it was asserted. At Tripoli, still another British airplane was destroyed.

Meantime Fascist planes twice bombed air bases in Malta, seriously damaging a small steamer.

NAVAL BASE IMPORTANT

Leningrad's Outer Defenses Broken, According To Nazi Claim

LONDON, Sept. 25 — Apparently throwing four mechanized divisions into the fray, German forces today started their anticipated attack on Russia's Crimean peninsula, according to British military authorities in London.

These quarters said they did not believe the Germans were using a force of more than four divisions for this particular assault, adding they probably all were crack mechanized troops.

They said the Germans were reported trying to force their way through the "bottleneck" Perekop Isthmus which joins the Crimea with the Russian mainland.

At the same time, authorities said, the German drives along the sea of Azov towards Stalino and Rostov-On-Don are believed to be well enough consolidated to prevent Russian flanking attacks.

Although there was no information in London to confirm the use of German airborne or parachute troops in the offensive against the Crimea, it was believed likely the assault is heavily supported by the Luftwaffe, since Russia dominates the sea routes.

War Of Attrition

The Crimean attack indicated the Germans have consolidated their entire southern line east of the Dnieper River. They may intend only a war of attrition against the Crimea to protect the Nazi flank moving eastward.

There is a possibility, however, that the Germans may be able to break through the Crimea with only four divisions—approximately 70,000 men—but if so they probably would follow up with a drive (Continued on Page Ten)

WHITE TO FACE PRISON TERM ON CHECK CHARGES

Jurors Deliberate One Hour Before Reaching Verdict In Fraud Case

SALE OF HOGS BASIS

Motion For New Trial To Be Filed; Previous Prison Record Admitted

After deliberating slightly over an hour Wednesday afternoon, a jury of five women and seven men convicted John T. White of Clarksburg of attempt to defraud the Pickaway Livestock Association by issuing a false check for $3,200.

The verdict came from the jury on the second ballot and was presented to the court by Jury Foreman Roy Stout of Circleville.

C. A. Weldon, White's attorney, informed the court that he would file a motion for a new trial within the next three days. Meanwhile White remains in County Jail awaiting Judge Terwilliger's decision either to grant him a new trial or overrule the motion and sentence him to the penitentiary. The sentence may not exceed three years.

During the three day trial, five witnesses testified for the state. They were Harry Briggs, manager of the Pickaway Livestock Association; Miss Ethel Brobst, treasurer of the livestock association; Earl Liston, Pickaway County farmer to whose farm White had gone to buy hogs; Charles Radcliff, county sheriff, and A. B. Teeters, cashier of the Bridgeport Bank, where White's check to the Livestock Association was issued.

Appearing for the defendant were I. W. Booth of Cleveland, a character witness, White himself, Charles Mason, manager of the American Hotel where White stayed when in Circleville; W. E. Hilyard, Pennsylvania Railroad agent, handling the shipment of hogs purchased by the check, and the following witnesses by deposition, Harley Harmon, Ross F. Stout, Howard M. Gore, former governor of West Virginia; Charles Long, Edson Stout and Lako L. Young, all of Clarksburg.

During the testimony of the trial, White admitted being convicted of bad check passing on two other occasions in Lincoln, Nebraska.

He was indicted by a Pickaway County grand jury in 1937 and was brought back to the county in January after he had served out his sentence in Lincoln, Neb. He has been in County Jail for the last eight months pending action of the court.

Second Term Voted During Annual Election In Memorial Hall

ACTIVITIES ARE VIEWED

Junior Rifle Team, More Stress On Boy Scout Troop Planned

American Legionnaires, Wednesday night reelected James Shea, East Main Street, as commander of Howard Hall post and mapped out an active schedule of Legion activities for the coming year.

Besides serving as commander of the post during the last year, Mr. Shea served as adjutant for six years.

Paul Johnson was elected first vice-commander at Wednesday night's election, held at Memorial Hall and James Cook was made second vice-commander. New Legion treasurer is Mack D. Parrett, the new adjutant E. C. Ebert and chaplain, Henry Mason.

Elected as sergeant-at-arms were H. E. Timmons and William Davis and to the executive committee, Bryan Custer, William Betts and Orin Dreisbach.

Commander Shea has not yet appointed his committees for the coming year, although tentative plans were made to stress activity among the junior groups. Efforts will be made to increase the size and activities of the Legion's scout troop.

To Form Rifle Club

Another program, entirely new in Circleville, will be the establishment of a Junior Rifle Club. Government officials have encouraged the organization of such clubs in the interests of National Defense and Legionnaires believe they may receive the support of the government in the promotion of such a project.

Junior club members could be organized under the direction of a senior member of the Pickaway County Rifle and Pistol Club and

STATUTORY CASE IS REDUCED TO ONE OF ASSAULT

Eighty-two-year-old Charles Cain of Derby, in County Jail for the last four months on a statutory indictment, pleaded guilty to assault and battery charges before Judge Meeker Terwilliger late Wednesday and was given a suspended sentence of 90 days in jail. Cain was released from jail and will live with a daughter near Grange Hall. The statutory charges filed against him by a twelve-year-old girl were changed to assault and battery.

On the Legion's program will be participation in the Pumpkin Show. Plans to promote a program of contests was discussed during the meeting and T. E. Wilson and Earl Smith were appointed as a committee to develop the program.

Following the business meeting at Memorial Hall, Legionnaires went to their club rooms on North Court Street for the remainder of the evening.

FBI CONTINUES STUDY OF FIRE AT WHITING, IND. TRUCE IN STRIKE

WHITING, Ind., Sept. 25—Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation today began assembling evidence in an effort to determine the cause of yesterday's spectacular fire at the Standard Oil Company refinery in Whiting, in which one man was killed and at least 20 injured.

Damage from the blaze was estimated at $100,000 by company officials, who said the cause was unknown. The company expressed doubt any evidence of sabotage would be found, but added that such a possibility was not being overlooked.

The FBI entered the inquiry because the plant is engaged in the manufacture of airplane gasolines for the government.

More than 30 oil storage tanks were destroyed during the conflagration, which roared through the 700-acre refinery—largest in the world for nine hours. The blaze apparently started in the No. 1 treating plant, but spread rapidly as the intense heat exploded other refinery units.

The man killed was John L. Yager, 49, a treating plant helper. All the injured men, plant employees, were painfully burned.

LIMA LOCOMOTIVE FIRM AGREES TO UNION PACT

LIMA, Sept. 25—A contract providing for a union shop and the checkoff system has been signed by the Lima Locomotive Works, Inc., and AFL craft unions, Alfred T. Murphy, secretary of the Lima Central Labor Union, announced today.

Murphy said L. A. Larsen, vice president and treasurer, signed for the company. Officials of the company, however, withheld comment in line with their customary policy of permitting all announcements to emanate from the firm's New York office.

Approximately 2,300 employees are affected by the contract and 700 more will be enrolled when the company's tank factory starts production.

Individual unions with the contracts were signed included the Metal Trades Workers, Blacksmith, truck driver, electricians, laborers, machinists, firemen and others. Murphy said painters, moulders and patternmakers would sign later.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25—Six hundred AFL seamen returned to work aboard 23 ships in six American ports today after officials of the Seafarers' International Union and the Sailors Union of the Pacific agreed to submit their "war bonus" dispute to the National Defense Mediation Board.

Although the unions have agreed to go back to work after a 12-day layoff, it was said at union headquarters that ballots for a general strike call were being sent out to all locals in the event that the Washington negotiations, scheduled to begin Monday, were unsuccessful.

John Hawk, secretary-treasurer of the SIU, who announced the back-to-work movement late yesterday after President Roosevelt's stern warning that labor disputes must not be allowed to tie up the nation's Merchant Marine service, today said it was the "sensible" thing to return inasmuch as the Mediation Board had offered to settle the dispute.

Hawk emphasized that it was the mediation board and not the Maritime Commission that had been selected to mediate the trouble. SIU officials have refused to have any dealings with the Maritime Commission since last week when the commission requisitioned three of the strikebound vessels and sailed them with government-recruited crews.

Although SIU leaders hailed the settlement as an AFL victory, spokesmen of the CIO's National Maritime Union, which rivals the SIU in the seamen's field, said the strike had "fizzled," and that the SIU had wound up accepting arbitration, just what they were offered before the walkout started. Shipping circles today estimated that the strike had cost shipping companies between $300,000 and $400,000, and that 150 shipping days had been lost. Despite the return to work today, it will be several days before the majority of the ships will be ready to put to sea again, it was said.

Von Papen Carries Bargain
To Ankara; Independence

SIEGE IN PARIS DENIED

British Note To Finland
Also Announced; Details
Not Disclosed

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The diplomatic correspondent of the London Evening Standard reported today that Franz Von Papen, German ambassador to Ankara, has presented this "Hitler bargain" to Turkey:

Firstly, if Turkey will denounce her alliance with England and remain a neutral spectator of a German drive along the Black Sea to the Caucasus and Iran, Germany will:

1—Guarantee Turkish independence.

2—Cede Turkey the Black Sea littoral to the sea of Azov.

3—Cede the Azerbaijan region. Secondly, if Turkey will swing to the axis, she will get all the above, plus Syria, Armenia, Palestine and Russo-Turkistan.

Siege Denied

BERLIN, Sept. 25 — German authorities today denied a report published in London that a state of siege has been declared in Paris.

On the contrary, it was stated, the German-occupied former French capital has returned to normal life following the lifting of the 9 p. m. curfew on Tuesday.

French Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain was declared to have expressed satisfaction that the German military command in Paris permitted the city to return to "normal conditions."

Note To Finland

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 25 — Receipt by Finland of a British note setting forth the "British attitude toward the war between Finland and the Soviet" was reported in a Finnish news agency dispatch from Helsinki today.

According to the agency, British press dispatches and radio broadcasts claiming Britain warned Finland she would be regarded as a "belligerent enemy" if she persists in fighting beyond the old Finnish border were incorrect.

The Finnish government was reported to have announced that "contents of the note and measures the Finnish government may take in this matter will be duly announced at a later date."

FOOD EXPANSION PROGRAM TO BE AIRED AT CONFAB

COLUMBUS, Sept. 25.—A food expansion campaign expected to reach every Ohio farmer and involving almost all farm products will be outlined by the Ohio Agricultural Defense Board tomorrow at its first meeting, it was announced today.

The board plans to discuss proposals for a state-wide meeting of cooperating state farm agencies, farm organizations, and co-operatives; to review state production goals and to break state goals into local county goals. Board Chairman Elmer F. Kruse said:

Kruse, who also is state AAA chairman, promised that "the full strength of the U. S. Department of Agriculture agencies will be available to farmers through state and county defense boards, to provide the nation's biggest food output in history in 1942."

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

HITLER OFFERS TURKS LAND FOR NEUTRAL STAND

Guaranteed

SIEGE IN PARIS DENIED

British Note To Finland
Also Announced; Details
Not Disclosed

LONDON, Sept. 25—The diplomatic correspondent of the London Evening Standard reported today that Franz Von Papen, German ambassador to Ankara, has presented this "Hitler bargain" to Turkey:

Firstly, if Turkey will denounce her alliance with England and remain a neutral spectator of a German drive along the Black Sea to the Caucasus and Iran, Germany will:

- 1—Guarantee Turkish independence.
  - 2—Cede Turkey the Black Sea littoral to the sea of Azov.
  - 3—Cede the Azerbaijan region.
- Secondly, if Turkey will swing to the axis, she will get all the above, plus Syria, Armenia, Palestine and Russo-Turkistan.

Siege Denied

BERLIN, Sept. 25 — German authorities today denied a report published in London that a state of siege has been declared in Paris.

On the contrary, it was stated, the German-occupied former French capital has returned to normal life following the lifting of the 9 p. m. curfew on Tuesday.

French Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain was declared to have expressed satisfaction that the German military command in Paris permitted the city to return to "normal conditions."

Note To Finland

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 25 — Receipt by Finland of a British note setting forth the "British attitude toward the war between Finland and the Soviet" was reported in a Finnish news agency dispatch from Helsinki today.

According to the agency, British press dispatches and radio broadcasts claiming Britain warned Finland she would be regarded as a "belligerent enemy" if she persists in fighting beyond the old Finnish border were incorrect.

The Finnish government was reported to have announced that "contents of the note and measures the Finnish government may take in this matter will be duly announced at a later date."

FOOD EXPANSION PROGRAM TO BE AIDED AT CONFAB

COLUMBUS, Sept. 25—A food expansion campaign expected to reach every Ohio farmer and involving almost all farm products will be outlined by the Ohio Agricultural Defense Board tomorrow at its first meeting, it was announced today.

The board plans to discuss proposals for a state-wide meeting of cooperating state farm agencies, farm organizations, and co-operatives; to review state production goals and to break state goals into local county goals. Board Chairman Elmer F. Kruse said:

"Every farmer," asserted Kruse, "will have a definite responsibility of supplying what is needed, in the amounts needed, and at the times needed so that America can provide the agricultural products needed to win the war for democracy."

Kruse, who also is state AAA chairman, promised that "the full strength of the U. S. Department of Agriculture agencies will be available to farmers through state and county defense boards, to provide the nation's biggest food output in history in 1942."

STATE HUSKING CONTEST TO BE OCTOBER 23-24

Booher Farm Near Urbana
To Be Scene Of Ohio Competition

HYBRID FIELDS READY

Complete Machinery Lines
May Be Missing, Say Manufacturers

Pickaway County's corn husking contest is tentatively scheduled for Tuesday, October 21, at the farm of Roger Hedges, near Ashville.

Ohio corn husking artists will get their best chance to show their speed at the 12th annual state husking contest, October 23 and 24, on the Harry Booher farm six miles southwest of Urbana. Twenty county champions, both in standing and in shock corn, and the 1940 state champions are expected to compete.

The contest will be held in a 250-acre field of corn on Mad River bottom land. Contestants will work in either Ohio 54 or Ohio 55 hybrid corn which has come through the dry weather in good shape.

Corn for the shock husking contest was being cut the middle of September. Plantings of 21 certified and new experimental corn hybrids which were to have been on exhibit during the contest probably will have to be cut to make room for plowing demonstrations but yield records from the planting will be shown in the display tent of the University extension service.

The usual machinery display had been planned on the contest dates but manufacturers now are saying it is difficult to assemble complete lines of their machinery for display. It is certain, however, that most of the newer farm power equipment will be shown.

Counties expecting to enter local champions in the Urbana contest should notify the Ohio Farmer, Cleveland, of their intentions by October 1 and should plan to hold county contests not later than October 15. The Champaign County champion will be admitted to the state contest without the formality of a local contest.

DARBY TWP. SCHOOL NEWS

The P-T. A. held its first regular meeting of the year on September 11. Mrs. Mary Riddle was elected president, Mrs. Dorothy Michel, vice president, and E. I.
Erskine, secretary-treasurer for the coming year. A reception for the teachers in the dining room followed the program. At the next meeting, October 9, the new officers will be installed by an officer from the State P-T. A. and Mr. Clausius will demonstrate the new Seescope recently purchased for the science classes by the Board of Education.

The total enrollment stays at 241. There are a few pupils out who are to come in yet.

The majority of our teachers attended the County Teachers' Meeting at Walnut Township School on September 13. Kenneth
C. Ray, the new State Director of Education was one of the speakers.

Mr. McDowell was a visitor in our school last Friday. He spoke on a Constitution Day Program in high school assembly at 9:30 and spent the remainder of the day visiting the various class rooms.

Harold Dick, a member of the fifth grade, had the misfortune to break both bones in his lower left arm when playing ball on the playground last week.

Darby's boys defeated the Deer-creek boys in a recreation ball game last week and a few days later were defeated by a team from Scioto. Our girls won their game from the Scioto girls.

The high school is sponsoring a program to be presented in the local school auditorium Thursday, October 2 at 8 p. m. by Pat Mc-Guire of Hollywood, California.

the Mt. Sterling High School in 1910-1911, and whose mother and Church as a contestant in W. C. T. U. speaking contests held there. He has a number of friends and school mates in the Mt. Sterling community and a number of friends in Grove City and in the local community.

serves. These officers are patriotic and conscientious men;
many of them are serving their country at real personal sacrifice.
But at the same time a considerable portion of them are unfit for their jobs and they will have to be weeded out for the good of the army. And that goes for some of the regulars too, particularly in the higher ranks.

The weeding out process, already quietly initiated by the War Department, won't be easy. Many guardsmen have political pull.
There will be a lot of heartbreaks.
But the purge must be pushed if
the new army is to become a real army.

YOUTH TO THE FORE

The new officers should come
from two sources: (1) The junior ranks of the citizen soldiers, who are the cream of the nation's youth. There isn't a finer body of men in the world; (2) the higher ranks from the younger regular officers, the majority of whom are keen, hard-working, conscientious experts, but held down by the obsolete promotion system of the army.

Hundreds of these crack young professionals are being wasted in piddling duties. They ought to be commanding regiments. If this were done it would have a tremendous effect all the way down the line. One of the most important results would be to increase greatly the confidence of the men in their officers—at present a definite weakness.

DAMYANKEES

There is no isolationism in this back country. The folks down here want to fight Hitler and are rarin' to go.

During a reconnaissance, Captain Joseph F. Haskell, brilliant young aide of Major General R. C.
Richardson, commander of the 7th Corps, stopped at a farm house to ask road directions. The old farmer was helpful and then began questioning Haskell about world affairs.

"How soon you reckon we going to war?" the farmer inquired.
Haskell said he was unable to answer.

"Well, cap'n," volunteered the older, "then perhaps you can tell me this. If we do tangle with this man Hitler, do you reckon them Damyankees will help us any?"

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Farmers and townspeople in the maneuver area are most hospitable
to the soldiers, but a few merchants boosted prices to men in uniform, particularly restaurants in Winnfield, birthplace of the late Huey Long. The new citizen army is remarkable for its sobriety
and orderliness. Although 450,000 men are in this area, military police and local authorities have had no cases of drunkenness or disorder. The relations between the officers and men in the new army are much less formal than during the World War. There is no lack of discipline but a lot of the old saluting has been scrapped.

during the Russo-Finnish War
and at Dunkirk during the English evacuation there.

important results enable you to enjoy the food you eat...to make use of it as Nature intended. Thus you may get new vitality...pep...become ani-

REA MEN ATTEND CONFERENCE ON FOOD PROGRAM

Darwin Kinder, manager, and
C. M. Ochs, director, of the South
Central Rural Electric Cooperative, will attend a regional conference in Fort Wayne, Indiana, September 30 and October 1, at which some 300 nutrition specialists, state school superintendents, and REA system managers will formulate plans for putting the REA Nutrition Program into action in this area.

In line with the nation's efforts
to improve nutrition, both for the period of the defense emergency and for later years, the REA program will make it possible for every rural school in this area
which is served by an REA-
financed line to set up a food preparation center. In this area there are approximately ten such schools. The centers would provide electrical equipment for processing and preserving health-building foods.

Arrangements will be made for
South Central Rural Electric Cooperative the funds for purchasing the equipment, according to Mr. Kinder.

Mr. Kinder outlined the benefits which might be expected in this area if the people of the community, school officials and various community groups work together to get the food preparation centers established. The centers would provide facilities for preparing hot school lunches. Extension Service workers could use the
facilities for demonstrating to adult groups the most scientific methods of processing and preserving foods. Rural citizens of the community could make full use of the equipment for applying these methods to their fruits, vegetables and grains for home use, he said.

serves. These officers are
patriotic and conscientious men;
many of them are serving their
country at real personal sacrifice.
But at the same time a considerable portion of them are unfit for their jobs and they will have to be weeded out for the good of the army. And that goes for some of the regulars too, particularly in the higher ranks.

The weeding out process, already quietly initiated by the War
guardsmen have political pull.
There will be a lot of heartbreaks.
But the purge must be pushed if
the new army is to become a real
army.

YOUTH TO THE FORE

The new officers should come
from two sources: (1) The junior ranks of the citizen soldiers, who are the cream of the nation's youth. There isn't a finer body of
ranks from the younger regular
keen, hard-working, conscientious
experts, but held down by the obsolete promotion system of the army.

Hundreds of these crack young
professionals are being wasted in piddling duties. They ought to be commanding regiments. If this
were done it would have a tremen-
results would be to increase greatly the confidence of the men
in their officers—at present a definite weakness.

DAMYANKEES

There is no isolationism in this
here want to fight Hitler and are
rarin' to go.

During a reconnaissance, Captain Joseph F. Haskell, brilliant
young aide of Major General R. C.
Richardson, commander of the 7th Corps, stopped at a farm house to ask road directions. The old farmer was helpful and then began
affairs.

"How soon you reckon we going to war?" the farmer inquired.
Haskell said he was unable to answer.

"Well, cap'n," volunteered the oldest, "then perhaps you can tell me this. If we do tangle with this man Hitler, do you reckon them Damyankees will help us any?"

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Farmers and townspeople in the
maneuver area are most hospitable
to the soldiers, but a few merchants boosted prices to men in uniform, particularly restaurants in Winfield, birthplace of the late Huey Long. . . . The new citizen
army is remarkable for its sobriety
and orderliness. Although 450,000 men are in this area, military police and local authorities
have had no cases of drunkenness
or disorder. . . . The relations between the officers and men in the
new army are much less formal
than during the World War. There is no lack of discipline but a lot of the old saluting has been
scrapped.

during the Russo-Finnish War
and at Dunkirk during the English evacuation there.

REA MEN ATTEND CONFERENCE ON FOOD PROGRAM

Darwin Kinder, manager, and
C. M. Ochs, director, of the South
Central Rural Electric Cooperative, will attend a regional conference in Fort Wayne, Indiana,
September 30 and October 1, at
which some 300 nutrition specialties, state school superintendents,
and REA system managers will
REA Nutrition Program into action in this area.

In line with the nation's efforts
to improve nutrition, both for the period of the defense emergency
and for later years, the REA program will make it possible for every rural school in this area
which is served by an REA-
financed line to set up a food preparation center. In this area
there are approximately ten such
schools. The centers would provide electrical equipment for processing and preserving health-
building foods.

Arrangements will be made for
South Central Rural Electric Cooperative the funds for purchas-
Mr. Kinder.

Mr. Kinder outlined the benefits which might be expected in
this area if the people of the community, school officials and various community groups work together to get the food preparation
centers established. The centers
would provide facilities for prepar-

Bread Stuffing

1½ pound loaf bread, dried 1½ to 1 cup fat, melted
1 teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon white pepper
1½ cup minced onion
2 tablespoons poultry seasoning

Remove crusts from bread and cut bread into 1-inch cubes.
Toss all ingredients together lightly.

Will fill a 6-pound fowl.
Stuffing does not necessarily need to be baked in the fowl or meat. If the bird is small or if there is some stuffing left over it may be baked or steamed in a greased ring mold, loaf pan served around bird.

IN SOFT HAWAII

HAWAII has been growing too soft, complains Admiral Husband E. Kimmel at Honolulu. It has taken advantage of the American troops and warships located there in large numbers. It has failed to support the American defense effort wholeheartedly. It has allowed local interests to gouge the army people. It has failed to provide good highways and let the telephone system run down and delayed other important defense matters. It has taken "an attitude of 'manana' about the current emergency."

It is the usual thing for tropical islanders to take things easy, but apparently the Hawaiians have gone too far. They cannot continue indefinitely living luxuriously at Uncle Sam's expense. And in view of the very costly and important protection the U. S. Army and Navy are providing for them, they might be expected to reciprocate more fully.

FOR NEWSPAPER READERS

THE newspaper, according to Edgar Dale of Ohio State University, is "democracy's textbook." Because it is often a misunderstood work, he has written what he characterizes as a guide for its intelligent reading. His book, called "How to Read a Newspaper", is intended for high school use, but reviewers assure the general public that it contains much of value for adult readers.

Four of the author's major purposes were: to help make readers aware of the influence of the newspaper on their information, attitudes and action; to help readers build up their own standards for judging newspapers; to help readers select and read efficiently and intelligently the newspapers that meet these standards; to help readers discover their individual and social responsibility for improving the press here in America.

If readers dig into this book and profit by its information and advice, there will be a great gain for newspapers generally in intelligent support.

COFFEE FOR MORALE

THE National Coffee Association is determined not to let wars, treasuries, stratagems or spoils interfere with our morning cup of coffee. Asking the OPM to allot proper packing materials for this industry, it declares:

"Coffee has been recognized as essential to the morale of the citizenry and the fighting forces of the United States, as vital to United States policy of economic, political and social collaboration with Latin American nations, and also as a perishable food product."

A lot of us "cafein slaves", as some stout-hearted abstainers call us, will admit

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

WITH SECOND ARMY IN LOUISIANA
—Like morale, the equally discussed shortage of army combat equipment is more apparent than real.

It is true that many of the hundreds of units undergoing field training in this tough bayou country do not have all the tanks, guns, motor vehicles and other arms their tables of organization call for.

There are armored scout cars roaring over the dusty roads with wooden simulations of 50 caliber machine guns mounted on their gun tracks. There are anti-aircraft and tank batteries that use poles to represent a portion of their guns. Many of the light and medium tanks are not the late models now clanking off Chrysler and other assembly lines. A number of outfits still are not fully equipped with the new Garand rifle. But despite these deficiencies the new citizen army is being trained to fight as a highly mobile, highly mechanized, highly armored battle machine. It is a very different army from the AEF.

From buck privates to commanding generals the new army is learning to operate as a blitz force. To a World War veteran the speed and scope of the maneuvers down here in this extremely difficult country are astounding. The fact that units do not have all the latest type equipment is not a serious matter right now.

1941—NOT 1917 MODEL

It would be serious if the new army was being molded into a reproduction of the 1917 model. It would also be very serious if large scale mass production of the latest type of arms was not under way. But it is under way. Meanwhile this citizen army has little outward resemblance to its World War predecessor.

Further, first-hand inquiry in units with simulated equipment disclosed that all the men had training in the real stuff. Every man in the infantry divisions has had target practice with the Garand, the available supply of this rifle being rotated for this purpose. The same was found to be true in all the other units where equipment shortages existed. Men and officers know the arms and equipment of their respective branches and they are learning to wage war as soldiers of these branches.

That is the important thing in the question of equipment deficiencies in the army at present. These deficiencies are rapidly being overcome. It is the training that is crucial—and it is model '41.

NOTE: Few recall that the nucleus of Hitler's blitzkrieg regions was trained with simulated tanks and mechanized equipment and guns.

SHORTAGE OF GOOD OFFICERS

Far more serious than the shortage of equipment is the problem of able officer personnel.

This is of the utmost moment because without efficient officers an army, no matter how good and plentiful its arms, is doomed to defeat.

These are worlds of room for improvement in the officer corps of this new army. There are now 100,000 officers on active duty, of whom 14,000 are regulars. Most of the rest are national guardsmen and reserves.

Appendicitis Victory

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

During the last year the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company reports that the death rate from appendicitis has dropped to the lowest on record. In 1929 the ap-

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

pendicitis death rate among millions of Metropolitan policy holders reached nearly 15 per 100,000, while in 1940 this toll dropped 40 per cent to 9 per 100,000.

This improvement is ascribed largely to the public health campaign which has brought home to the public a better understanding of the symptoms of the disease and the great importance of prompt surgical treatment.

Three Fallacies

Three fallacies that remain imbedded in the public mind still contribute to keeping the death rate from appendicitis too high:

The first is the idea that an acute bellyache is just something you ate or is indigestion and the thing to do is to get rid of it by taking a cathartic.

The second is that the symptoms of appendicitis are so plain anyone can recognize them.

The third is that once recognized, appendicitis is easy to treat.

The truth is that appendicitis is one of the most tricky and treacherous and irregular of all diseases. It may appear in nearly any form of acute abdominal symptoms. The common mistake is to suppose that the pain of acute appendicitis is low down on the right side, just over where the appendix is. As a matter of fact, the pain of appendicitis can be anywhere—high up in the back, over the kidneys or liver, or stomach, on the left side, or there may be no pain at all—only vomiting. Last year I pointed out that when Mr. Dempsey had appendicitis, he resisted the diagnosis at first and said it was just an old-fashioned Dempsey family stomach-ache.

Abdominal Upset

In view of this, any kind of upset in the abdominal region should be regarded with respect. Whatever else you do, under these circumstances, don't take a cathartic. A cathartic simply stirs the process up, ruptures the appendix and starts a peritonitis. It is hard to resist the temptation to take a cathartic because you feel as if everything would be all right if you could just get things moving. But resist it. If it simply is indigestion, things will soon begin to move anyhow. If you are far out on the prairie away from a doctor, just do nothing for several hours. Cases of acute appendicitis subsided if they are left strictly alone.

Actually the number of deaths from appendicitis itself is relatively small. The high mortality is due to the complication of spreading peritonitis following a perforated appendix. It has been estimated that more than 80 per cent of the deaths from appendicitis are caused by this complication.

The immediate path for further gains lies in continuing to emphasize to the public the importance of prompt hospitalization, and avoiding the use of laxatives in the presence of abdominal pain.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

W. E. G.: "1. Is garlic a stomachic tonic? 2. Is it an antiseptic? 3. Is the use of garlic in one or more drams taken daily beneficial in the treatment of high blood pressure?"

Answer: Garlic is a stomachic tonic. It is not antiseptic, and it is doubtful whether it has any permanent effect on blood pressure.

B. S. M.: "Is rice considered a good nourishing food or are there any ill effects caused by eating a generous meal of it each evening with plenty of milk?"

Answer: Rice is one of the most nutritious foods in the world. It should, however, be eaten whole; that is with the shell on, and should be fortified by other foods, including milk and green vegetables.

L. C. T.: "Is it true that excessive use of soap in washing the face will produce a growth of hair on the face?"

Answer: No.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clending has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

A Ride in a Paper Boat

By MARIE BLIZARD
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS
Leaving New York for Miami to marry again, HALLIE SINGLETON, a fashion model, reminisces about the time, six years before, when she was only 21 years old and had just met ERIC ADAMS, a young would-be actor. She remembers how SHEILA SHERMAN, a chorus girl and friend of Eric's, appeared on the scene.

YESTERDAY: In an effort to "keep up," Eric tells Hallie to hire a maid, despite their close budgeting.

CHAPTER TWELVE

OCTOBER was over and then it was time for Hallie and Eric to celebrate an anniversary—their first month—and, before they knew it, November had come and gone and Christmas was in the air.

Hallie didn't want to think of Christmas. It opened up the growing wound in her heart that was her longing for Worburn. At Christmas, as at no other time, she and Daddy and Mummy had been so close. The house had always been filled with cousins and aunts and uncles, and they'd all turned to, to hang laurels and holly, to practice Christmas carols, to wrap the endless gifts, to trim the tree, to be family and love it.

No, Hallie did not want to think about it, so she deliberately put it out of her mind and turned to other things.

There were a great many things to occupy her time. It wasn't at all the way she thought it was going to be two months before when she had budgeted her time as well as her income. Then, she'd thought she'd have nothing else to do but keep house when Eric was busy and be with Eric when he was not.

It was quite, quite different. It had been different from the night of the opening of Eric's play. Now they had friends, new friends, the young men and women to share their exciting talk of the theater. Young men like Eric who looked like clean-cut college boys, and lovely young girls who talked of Chekov and Shaw and were not quite certain of the newer playwrights.

There weren't any columnists or famous names in their group, as Eric had hoped their might be, but the boys and girls—Alexis and Dennis and Glory and Morgan and Welles and Christine—they had met at one big party or another and casually said, "Come by for cocktails Friday."

That was the way the group and the parties began. They seldom went to expensive places to dine, they usually met in someone's apartment—most frequently at the Adamses—and drank cocktails and went somewhere "for a bite." Or they met after the theater and sat up until more than half the night was done.

Sara Cornell had never come to tea, but she'd sent matinee tickets to Hallie with brief little notes, saying that she'd like Hallie to use them. In time, she completely forgot about Hallie and only one memory remained of what might have been a friendship—the maid, Pearl.

Pearl was a coffee-colored jewel.

With all this talk about encirclement, the Open Door policy seems to have been succeeded by the revolving door.

Dr. H. H. Miesse, Charles Frey and Nelson Reichelderfer attended the opening of the Republican state convention in Dayton.

She salvaged the lingerie and blouses and sweaters that Hallie had so nearly ruined by her own unaccounted efforts to launder them. She saved on Eric's laundry by doing his things herself. She kept the apartment spic and span and she had a way of getting big meals out of little things. This, Hallie thought, was a real economy in view of the vast amount of meals they served.

Eric had been entirely right to insist on a maid. It narrowed the budget, but Hallie found she could manage until Eric said he really had to do something about her clothes.

"You've got to have clever little black dresses, some good costume jewelry and mad hats."

"But I didn't think men liked them," Hallie protested feebly.

"Don't worry about men, honey. I want you to look as clever as you are. If you were in the theater, you'd know how important it is to look a part. You're a smart young New Yorker now. I want you to look like it."

Hallie gave in and one day they went on a shopping trip. Hallie came home with a "clever little black dress," two wide gold bracelets, spike-heeled shoes, a hat that was a patch to sit over her right eye and a heavenly soft fur jacket of blue fox. And a new hair-do. Up on top of her head went her thick yellow hair. It made a completely new Hallie of her. Her mouth looked larger, her eyes wider and the bones of her cheek gave her face distinction. She didn't feel at all like herself, but she grew accustomed to it, and to hearing Eric tell her that so-and-so had commented on her striking looks.

The bills took all the pleasure out of the adventure. Eric had insisted on charging their purchases, and caught up in the excitement of the moment, Hallie hadn't thought of the sum they were spending until the bills came in the first of the month.

"We'll send them twenty-five a month," Eric said blithely. "The same as I send the tailor."

Hallie dropped her fountain pen. "You don't owe the tailor, Eric! You bought your suits with Win's hundred when we were married."

"Hallie, you don't suppose I got those suits for fifty a piece? They were a hundred each. I gave him fifty. Had to use the rest for something that came up. Work over that budget a little bit longer. You can stretch it to any length."

This was once when the budget would not be stretched. The rent, Pearl's forty a month, the grocery and electric light and telephone bills, the laundry. . . . No, it just wouldn't do.

Hallie said, "I'll have to dip into my two thousand, Eric. I don't really mind. It's only three hundred I need. I'll leave the rest. I'll write Daddy tonight."

Eric had been firm about her spending any of her money. "Your nest-egg in case anything happens to me," Eric had said, and she'd loved him for it.

Now he merely shrugged. "If it's identical teeth. This has no news value until Mrs. D. tries to discover who sneaked that bite out of the cake."

Words of Wisdom

"Keep aloof from sadness," says an Icelandic writer, "for sadness is a sickness of the soul." Life has, indeed, many ills, but the mind that views every object in its most cheering aspect, and every doubtful dispensation as replete with latent good, bears within itself a powerful and perpetual antidote. The gloomy soul aggravates misfortune, while a will make you feel better," he told her, "go ahead. But don't keep dipping into it. Next year I'll get a really big part and a decent salary."

"Seventy-five is decent," Hallie said wistfully. "We ought to be able to save something out of it for when you're at liberty." She had learned the graceful way of saying "when you're out of a job."

"Time enough to worry about that months from now. We'll run through the spring and summer, Meyerling thinks."

"Is there any way of being sure?" Hallie felt her first apprehension.

"Well, the house is sold out weeks in advance. You know what a success it is. Now, put away that depressing checkbook and get into your glad rags. We have time to catch a movie before Glory and Alexis get here." He kissed her on the back of her neck. "Are you having any fun?"

"I don't have anything but fun," she said, twisting about to kiss him when he bent over her. "But I should have that anywhere—with you."

"And you're not sorry you didn't marry a young businessman in Worburn?"

"Oh, Eric! That was all she could say. If she were in Worburn there would be nothing to do this evening but play bridge with another couple, or go to a movie. And here she was, going off to a movie in the middle of the afternoon with her husband, hurrying home when it was over to get into a hostess gown, to see that the canapes were ready for cocktails, receiving attractive, exciting young guests."

This was life.

Never for a moment did she think of the meaning of things she heard from these same attractive young guests. "What's become of Osborne?" "Oh, he had to go back to Kentucky. Gone in the coal business, or something." Gone, lost to them, blown away from their dance in the sunlight like a leaf, as forgotten. Or, "Darling, guess who I saw today? Miriam Cole! I nearly died when I found her working in Bonvita's. None of us have seen anything of the Coles in years. Tommy hasn't had a part in three years. You'd just never know Miriam. She's got dull, or something."

"They used to have a pent-house, didn't they?" "Yes, but Tommy was in a show then that lasted two years." "I used to be her dearest friend."

Those leaves that blossomed young and fresh on Broadway and were blown away by the winds of chance, they were gay and happy, living the heady lives of Eric and Hallie, believing that today lasts and tomorrow will take care of itself.

Hallie wrote her father and asked him to send her five hundred dollars of her money. Three was all she needed, but Christmas was only three weeks away and she meant to send everyone she knew a gift of something that would show them how successful and secure she was in her marriage.

They should watch their health. Their business will expand. Born on this date a child will enjoy the cooperation and valuable help of employers, but will be subject to setbacks and sudden upheavals through feminine relatives.

IN SOFT HAWAII

HAWAII has been growing too soft, complains Admiral Husband E. Kimmel at Honolulu. It has taken advantage of the American troops and warships located there in large numbers. It has failed to support the American defense effort wholeheartedly. It has allowed local interests to gouge the army people. It has failed to provide good highways and let the telephone system run down and delayed other important defense matters. It has taken "an attitude of 'manana' about highly important matters connected with the current emergency."

It is the usual thing for tropical islanders to take things easy, but apparently the Hawaiians have gone too far. They cannot continue indefinitely living luxuriously at Uncle Sam's expense. And in view of the very costly and important protection the U. S. Army and Navy are providing for them, they might be expected to reciprocate more fully.

FOR NEWSPAPER READERS

THE newspaper, according to Edgar Dale of Ohio State University, is "democracy's textbook." Because it is often a misunderstood work, he has written what he characterizes as a guide for its intelligent reading. His book, called "How to Read a Newspaper", is intended for high school use, but reviewers assure the general public that it contains much of value for adult readers.

Four of the author's major purposes were: to help make readers aware of the influence of the newspaper on their information, attitudes and action; to help readers build up their own standards for judging newspapers; to help readers select and read efficiently and intelligently the newspapers that meet these standards; to help readers discover their individual and social responsibility for improving the press here in America.

If readers dig into this book and profit by its information and advice, there will be a great gain for newspapers generally in intelligent support.

vital to United States policy of economic, political and social collaboration with

—Like morale, the equally discussed shortage of army combat equipment is more apparent than real.

It is true that many of the hundreds of units undergoing field training in this tough bayou country do not have all the tanks, guns, motor vehicles and other arms their tables of organization call for.

There are armored scout cars roaring over the dusty roads with wooden simulations of 50 caliber machine guns mounted on their gun tracks. There are anti-aircraft and tank batteries that use poles to represent a portion of their guns. Many of the light and medium tanks are not the late models now clanking off Chrysler and other assembly lines. A number of outfits still are not fully equipped with the new Garand rifle. But despite these deficiencies the new citizen army is being trained to fight as a highly mobile, highly mechanized, highly armored battle machine. It is a very different army from the AEF.

From buck privates to commanding generals the new army is learning to operate as a blitz force. To a World War veteran the speed and scope of the maneuvers down here in this extremely difficult country are astounding. The fact that units do not have all the latest type equipment is not a serious matter right now.

1941—NOT 1917 MODEL

It would be serious if the new army was being molded into a reproduction of the 1917 model. It would also be very serious if large scale mass production of the latest type of arms was not under way.
But it is under way. Meanwhile this citizen army has little outward resemblance to its World War predecessor.

Further, first-hand inquiry in units with simulated equipment disclosed that all the men had training in the real stuff.
Every man in the infantry divisions has had target practice with the Garand, the available supply of this rifle being rotated for this purpose. The same was found to be true in all the other units where equipment shortages existed. Men and officers know the arms and equipment of their respective branches and they are learning to wage war as soldiers of these branches.

That is the important thing in the question of equipment deficiencies in the army at present. These deficiencies are rapidly being overcome. It is the training that is crucial—and it is model '41.

NOTE: Few recall that the nucleus of Hitler's blitzkrieg regions was trained with simulated tanks and mechanized equipment and guns.

SHORTAGE OF GOOD OFFICERS

Far more serious than the shortage of equipment is the problem of able officer personnel.

This is of the utmost moment because without efficient officers an army, no matter how good and plentiful its arms, is doomed to defeat.

These are worlds of room for improvement in the officer corps of this new army.
There are now 100,000 officers on active duty, of whom 14,000 are regulars. Most of the rest are national guardsmen and re-

that it's essential to our personal morale, anyway.

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
● During the last year the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company reports that the death rate from appendicitis has dropped to the lowest on record. In 1929 the appendicitis death rate among millions of Metropolitan policy holders reached nearly 15 per 100,000, while in 1940 this toll dropped 40 per cent to 9 per 100,000.

This improvement is ascribed largely to the public health campaign which has brought home to the public a better understanding of the symptoms of the disease and the great importance of prompt surgical treatment.

Three fallacies that remain imbedded in the public mind still contribute to keeping the death rate from appendicitis too high:

The first is the idea that an acute bellyache is just something you ate or is indigestion and the thing to do is to get rid of it by taking a cathartic.

The second is that the symptoms of appendicitis are so plain anyone can recognize them.

The third is that once recognized, appendicitis is easy to treat.

The truth is that appendicitis is one of the most tricky and treacherous and irregular of all diseases. It may appear in nearly any form of acute abdominal symptoms. The common mistake is to suppose that the pain of acute appendicitis is low down on the right side, just over where the appendix is. As a matter of fact, the pain of appendicitis can be anywhere—high up in the back, over the kidneys or liver, or stomach, on the left side, or there may be no pain at all—only vomiting. Last year I pointed out that when Mr. Dempsey had appendicitis, he resisted the diagnosis at first and said it was just an old-fashioned Dempsey family stomach-ache.

Abdominal Upset

In view of this, any kind of upset in the abdominal region should be regarded with respect. Whatever else you do, under these circumstances, don't take a cathartic.
A cathartic simply stirs the process up, ruptures the appendix and starts a peritonitis. It is hard to resist the temptation to take a cathartic because you feel as if everything would be all right if you could just get things moving.

But resist it. If it simply is indigestion, things will soon begin to move anyhow. If you are far out on the prairie away from a doctor, just do nothing for several hours. Cases of acute appendicitis subside if they are left strictly alone.

Actually the number of deaths from appendicitis itself is relatively small. The high mortality is due to the complication of spreading peritonitis following a perforated appendix. It has been estimated that more than 80 per cent of the deaths from appendicitis are caused by this complication.

The immediate path for further gains lies in continuing to emphasize to the public the importance of prompt hospitalization, and avoiding the use of laxatives in the presence of abdominal pain.

achic tonic? 2. Is it an antiseptic?
3. Is the use of garlic in one or more drams taken daily beneficial in the treatment of high blood pressure?"

Answer: Garlic is a stomachic tonic. It is not antiseptic, and it is doubtful whether it has any permanent effect on blood pressure.

B. S. M.: "Is rice considered a good nourishing food or are there any ill effects caused by eating a generous meal of it each evening with plenty of milk?"

Answer: Rice is one of the most nutritious foods in the world. It should, however, be eaten whole; that is with the shell on, and should be fortified by other foods, including milk and green vegetables.

L. C. T.: "Is it true that exces-

By MARIE BLIZARD

SYNOPSIS

Leaving New York for Miami to marry again,
HALLIE SINGLETON, a fashion model, reminisces about the time, six years before, when she was only 21 years old and had just met

ERIC ADAMS, a young would-be actor.
She remembers how SHEILA SHERMAN, a chorus girl and friend of Eric's, appeared on the scene.

YESTERDAY: In an effort to "keep up," Eric tells Hallie to hire a maid, despite their close budgeting.

CHAPTER TWELVE

OCTOBER was over and then it was time for Hallie and Eric to celebrate an anniversary—their first month—and, before they knew it, November had come and gone and Christmas was in the air.

Hallie didn't want to think of Christmas. It opened up the growing wound in her heart that was her longing for Worburn. At Christmas, as at no other time, she and Daddy and Mummy had been so close. The house had always been filled with cousins and aunts and uncles, and they'd all turned to, to hang laurels and holly, to practice Christmas carols, to wrap the endless gifts, to trim the tree, to be family and love it.

No, Hallie did not want to think about it, so she deliberately put it out of her mind and turned to other things.

There were a great many things to occupy her time. It wasn't at all the way she thought it was going to be two months before when she had budgeted her time as well as her income. Then, she'd thought she'd have nothing else to do but keep house when Eric was busy and be with Eric when he was not.

It was quite, quite different. It had been different from the night of the opening of Eric's play. Now they had friends, new friends, the young men and women to share their exciting shop talk of the theater. Young men like Eric who looked like clean-cut college boys, and lovely young girls who talked of Checkov and Shaw and were not quite certain of the newer play-rights.

There weren't any columnists or famous names in their group, as Eric had hoped their might be, but the boys and girls—Alexis and Dennis and Gloria and Morgan and Welles and Christine—they had met at one big party or another and casually said, "Come by for cocktails Friday."

That was the way the group and the parties began. They seldom went to expensive places to dine, they usually met in someone's apartment—most frequently at the Adamses—and drank cocktails and went somewhere "for a bite." Or they met after the theater and sat up until more than half the night was done.

Sara Cornell had never come to tea, but she'd sent matinee tickets to Hallie with brief little notes, saying that she'd like Hallie to use them. In time, she completely forgot about Hallie and only one memory remained of what might have been a friendship—the maid, Pearl.

You're Telling Me!

THE PESSIMIST worries about a shortage of fuel, says Grandpappy Jenkins, while the optimist looks forward to a shortage of winter.

With Russia invaded by the Nazis and the Cincinnati club down in the dumps, the old Red menace isn't what it used to be.

Rocky Mountain sheep, we read, have hair and not wool. The West no longer is wild. In fact, it's not even woolly.

When those first big blizzards arrive in Russia the German army no doubt will demonstrate for us whether it's possible to goose-step on snow shoes.

With all this talk about encirclement, the Open Door policy seems to have been succeeded by the revolving door.

The Dionne quintuplets have ler was to visit her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Alwin Moel-ler, of New York City, where she expected to locate.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Teegardin of Duval and John H. Sark of Ashville attended the National Gain Dealers' convention at Baltimore, Md.

Dr. H. H. Miesse, Charles Frey and Nelson Reichelderfer attended the opening of the Republican state convention in Dayton.

Eric had been entirely right to insist on a maid. It narrowed the budget, but Hallie found she could manage until Eric said he really had to do something about her clothes.

"You've got to have clever little black dresses, some good costume jewelry and mad hats."

"But I didn't think men liked them," Hallie protested feebly.

"Don't worry about men, honey.
I want you to look as clever as you are. If you were in the theater, you'd know how important it is to look a part. You're a smart young New Yorker now. I want you to look like it."

Hallie gave in and one day they went on a shopping trip. Hallie came home with a "clever little black dress," two wide gold bracelets, spike-heeled shoes, a hat that was a patch to sit over her right eye and a heavenly soft fur jacket of blue fox. And a new hair-do. Up on top of her head went her thick yellow hair. It made a completely new Hallie of her. Her mouth looked larger, her eyes wider and the bones of her cheek gave her face distinction. She didn't feel at all like herself, but she grew accustomed to it, and to hearing Eric tell her that so-and-so had commented on her striking looks.

The bills took all the pleasure out of the adventure. Eric had insisted on charging their purchases, and caught up in the excitement of the moment, Hallie hadn't thought of the sum they were spending until the bills came in the first of the month.

"We'll send them twenty-five a month," Eric said blithely. "The same as I send the tailor."

Hallie dropped her fountain pen.
"You don't owe the tailor, Eric!
You bought your suits with Win's hundred when we were married."

"Hallie, you don't suppose I got those suits for fifty a piece? They were a hundred each. I gave him fifty. Had to use the rest for something that came up. Work over that budget a little bit longer. You can stretch it to any length."

This was once when the budget would not be stretched. The rent, Pearl's forty a month, the grocery and electric light and telephone bills, the laundry. . . . No, it just wouldn't do.

Hallie said, "I'll have to dip into my two thousand, Eric. I don't really mind. It's only three hundred I need. I'll leave the rest. I'll write Daddy tonight."

Eric had been firm about her spending any of her money. "Your nest-egg in case anything happens to me," Eric had said, and she'd loved him for it.

Now he merely shrugged. "If it value until Mrs. D. tries to discover who sneaked that bite out of the cake.

which is only the scientific way of saying that the good old summer has started its nine-month vacation.

small because tea was a new and fashionable drink and was expen-

Words of Wisdom

"Keep aloof from sadness," says an Icelandic writer, "for sadness is a sickness of the soul." Life has, indeed, many ills, but the mind that views every object in its most cheering aspect, and every doubtful dispensation as replete with latent good, bears within itself a powerful and perpetual antidote. The gloomy soul ag-gravates misfortune, while a will make you feel better," he told her, "go ahead. But don't keep dip-pling into it. Next year I'll get a really big part and a decent salary."

"Seventy-five is decent," Hallie said wistfully. "We ought to be able to save something out of it for when you're at liberty." She had learned the graceful way of saying "when you're out of a job."

"Time enough to worry about that months from now. We'll run through the spring and summer, Meyerling thinks."

"Is there any way of being sure?" Hallie felt her first apprehension.

"Well, the house is sold out weeks in advance. You know what a success it is. Now, put away that depressing checkbook and get into your glad rags. We have time to catch a movie before Gloria and Alexis get here." He kissed her on the back of her neck. "Are you having any fun?"

"I don't have anything but fun," she said, twisting about to kiss him when he bent over her. "But I should have that anywhere—with you."

"And you're not sorry you didn't marry a young businessman in Worburn?"

"Oh, Eric! That was all she could say. If she were in Worburn there would be nothing to do this evening but play bridge with another couple, or go to a movie. And here she was, going off to a movie in the middle of the afternoon with her husband, hurrying home when it was over to get into a hostess gown, to see that the canapés were ready for cocktails,

Today's Garden-Graph

A Begonia That Braves Winter Weather

Not only can this begonia stand zero weather, but it is exceedingly attractive, although not quite as showy as its more delicate sisters. Its foliage, shown in the illustration, is unusually attractive. The plants grow about two feet high and the large leaves are a light yet rich green. The leaf joints, as well as the veining of the leaves,

Peonies and most of the perennials may be moved as long as the weather does not get too cold and the ground remains in good condition. Of course the late bloomers such as asters, anemones and chrysanthemums are always better left undisturbed until spring.

Small plants of calendulas, lantanas, bedding begonias, petunias and geraniums potted up now will grow and flower in the living room when cold weather comes. It is best that they should become well established while the weather is still warm.

available, a new start at seeding and sodding the lawn may be made with more assurance of success than during hot weather. If large areas are to be seeded, preparation should commence at once so that they will be ready when the fall rains come.

Trees will soon be entering their dormant period and may be safely transplanted. In planting new stock, don't overlook mixing a complete balanced plant food with the soil, and thus insure having a supply of available nourishment present when the trees start growth in the spring.

"Miss America"

MRS. Ruth Licklider, 19, of New York City, isn't going to take a back seat to "Miss America," because she can hold her own in the field of pulchritude, being chosen winner of the "Mrs. America" contest at Palisades Park, N. J. Red-haired Mrs. Licklider has challenged the new "Miss America" to match charm for charm.

Today's Garden-Graph

Not only can this begonia stand zero weather, but it is exceedingly attractive, although not quite as showy as its more delicate sisters. Its foliage, shown in the illustration, is unusually attractive. The plants grow about two feet high and the large leaves are a light yet rich green. The leaf joints, as well as the veining of the leaves,

Certain perennials send up new shoots at a short distance, by means of an underground root system. These can be divided easily by digging up the new shoot with a section of the old root, and making a sharp cut through the soil close to the parent plant.

Peonies and most of the perennials may be moved as long as the weather does not get too cold and the ground remains in good condition. Of course the late bloomers such as asters, anemones and chrysanthemums are always better left undisturbed until spring.

Small plants of calendulas, lantanas, bedding begonias, petunias and geraniums potted up now will grow and flower in the living room when cold weather comes. It is best that they should become well established while the weather is still warm.

About This And That In Many Sports

Despite a series of tough breaks that would cause most football teams to toss in the towel, Coach Roy Black's Circleville High Tigers are hard at work in preparation for their trip to Hillsboro Friday evening, and even though today is Thursday—usually a day of rest prior to a game—the Tigers were planning to be on the gridiron from the time school dismisses until dark studying their assignments and getting plays working smoothly. . . . The Indians provide the second test of the young season, and from all reports the Tigers will be out-weighted considerably, especially in the backfield. . . .

First Bob Kline breaks his shoulder, and then Normie Anderson hurts his knee and is waved to the bench, and now Bob Moon is ill. . . . Kline's left halfback spot is being taken over by Tom Shea; Anderson's fullback job is now in Dud Smallwood's hands, and the scrappy young athlete has taken such a liking to the post that he is defying anyone to wrest it from him. . . . Moon, the squad's best punter, was out of school Wednesday suffering from an illness. . . . It was hoped that he would be ready for Friday, because his booming kicks will help the Tiger cause no little. . . .

There isn't any denying that Coach Black's boys want to play the game, and properly. . . . Tom Shea found the left halfback job wished on him at a moment's notice, and he started to work immediately to learn his plays. . . . Two evenings this week he has been busy studying the charts on the kitchen table at home, and beside him have been four tomatoes, each of which represents a backfield man. . . . He goes through each play and moves each tomato just as the play calls for each athlete to maneuver. . . . His efforts will be rewarded, too, because he's certain to start at left half against Hillsboro. . . .

Kicking, Passing Talent Needed By Buck Outfit

By John Barrington

COLUMBUS, Sept. 25—With the inaugural Missouri clash only two days away, Coach Paul Brown of Ohio State continued today to search for kicking and passing talent—needed desperately to supplement a none too speedy running attack.

Although less a problem than the kicking department, Scarlet and Grey passing has been rather inconsistent and was more unimpressive than usual yesterday when the Bucks held their last full-length practice before the opener at Ohio State stadium Saturday. Left halfbacks Dick Fisher and Paul Sa'ringhaus will probably do the bulk of the throwing.

CINCINNATI PUTS THIRD POSITION SAFELY IN B A C

CINCINNATI, Sept. 25—The Cincinnati Reds, World Champions of 1940, today were assured of finishing in third place in the 1941 National League pennant race even though they lost all their remaining games.

The Reds clinched third place yesterday as they defeated the Chicago Cubs, 2 to 0, behind Bucky Walters' six-hit hurling. The Reds were to play the Cubs again today with Ray Starr, late of the Indianapolis Indians of the American Association, slated to hurl for Cincinnati.

After yesterday's game, the Redlegs split the third place National League money they will receive from the World Series spoils. Thirty persons will get full shares, including Groundkeeper Matty Schwab. Half a share was voted rookie Ed Lukon and quarter shares to rookies Hank Sauer, Ray Starr, Ray Lamanno and Benny Zientara.

HEROES AND GOATS

Heroes: Tom Sunkel, Giants' rookie, who shut out the Phils with two hits. Thornton Lee, White Sox, who led the Indians down with two hits. Bucky Walters, Reds, who pitched six hit shutout against Cubs. Harry Gumbert, Cardinals, who blanked Pirates with six hits. Dixie Walker, Dodgers, whose triple with bases loaded beat Braves. Dom DiMaggio whose grand slam homer beat Senators. Brother Joe DiMaggio whose 29th and 30th homers helped beat Athletics.

GOATS: Si Johnson, Phils, who failed to last one inning against Punting has been particularly weak, though Johnny Hallabrin, who is elected for most of the punting, was kicking fairly well in yesterday's practice. Best punters in camp are probably Bob Hecklinger, sophomore fullback, and Dick Zimmerman, sophomore tackle, neither of whom is a regular or even a second stringer.

Leon Schoenbaum, sophomore end and brother of a former Ohio State captain, carries a reputation as a place kicking specialist and will probably start the game Saturday in case the Bucks kick off. Especially accurate on short placements of the extra point and field goal variety, Schoenbaum was not getting consistent distance on his kick offs yesterday.

After giving due attention to polishing up a defense for the offense, Missouri is expected to use, including the mysterious "T" formation, Brown sent his charges through a short offensive drill of its own yesterday. Then, the Bucks wound up the session with a protracted kicking practice, which seemed to reflect the Scarlet's anxiety over that phase of its attack, but which merely emphasized the weakness of that department.

Forced to stand or fall in the Missouri tilt on what has already been accomplished, Brown will taper off with a short practice of about an hour's length today, and Friday the team won't drill much more than ten minutes.

Missouri is not due to arrive in town until Friday evening. Coach Don Faurot passing up an opportunity to work out in Ohio stadium. The Tigers practiced at the stadium when they were in Columbus in 1939, and the Bucks of that year won a 19-0 victory.

GRANGE AIDS ILLINI IN DRILL; LINE IS JUGGLED

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Sept. 25—If there was a little extra zip among Illinois' football players today there was a reason—the reason being the all-time Illini great, Harold "Red" Grange, watched the squad work out yesterday, when Coach Bob Zuppke tried out a new line arrangement which included Johnny MacArthur at center, and Alex Agase and Elmer Engle at the tackles.

ANDRAKO RELEASED BY WASHINGTON PRO OUTFIT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—The Washington Redskins today were cut to their maximum limit of 33 men, after Center Steve Andraکو, former Ohio State captain, was given his outright release. He joined the Skins last fall.

SPORTS

Giants: Johnny Lanning, Pirates, routed by Cardinals. Dutch Leonard, Senators, chased by Red Sox.

Kicking, Passing Talent Needed By Buck Outfit

COLUMBUS, Sept. 25—With the inaugural Missouri clash only two days away, Coach Paul Brown of Ohio State continued today to search for kicking and passing talent—needed desperately to supplement a none too speedy running attack.

Although less a problem than the kicking department, Scarlet and Grey passing has been rather inconsistent and was more unimpressive than usual yesterday when the Bucks held their last full-length practice before the opener at Ohio State stadium Saturday. Left halfbacks Dick Fisher and Paul Sarringhaus will probably do the bulk of the throwing.
